Mrs. Twaddell preceded her husband by several months, she having died the 9th day of last February.

Three sons are left by this death ? mourn their loss of a kind and loving father, namely. James E. of Linn County Oregon, and William C. and Burel Paradise, Oregon. May these boys with others who were near and dear to him follow in this good man's footsteps.

Barnes of Cove Dead - Came to Grande Ronde in '63 as a Pioneer - Death of Former Union County Pioneer Occurs at Asotin, Wash. - Survived by Widow and Seven Children

La Grande Evening Observer, Feb. 3, 1909, pg 7

Cove, Feb. 2 - (Special) - Word has been received by relatives here of the death at Asotin, Wash., of Oliver P. Barnes, who was a pioneer of Cove and Union county. He was born in Johnson county, Indiana, November 21, 1833. In 1845 he moved with his parents to Illinois and in 1852 he went to live in Mercer county, Missouri. Three years later, June 16, 1855, he married Miss Minerva Kilgore. He left Missouri in May 1862, arriving in the Grande Ronde valley on September 20, the same year. Here he lived for 27 years, moving to Paradise in 1889, and later to Asotin, Wash., where his death occurred on January 9, 1909. He is survived by his widow and seven children: W. A. Barnes, Durkee, Ore.; H. P. Barnes, Asotin, Wash.; Mrs. J. W. Sells, Cove, Ore.; Mrs. J. W. Fisher, Paradise, Ore.; Mrs. Herbem Achurch, Lostine, Ore.; Mrs. W. R. Day and Mrs. C. C. Day of Asotin, Wash.

Barnes, Oliver P.

The following data is extracted from Wallowa County, Oregon Obituaries.

One by one the pioneers of this section of country are passing away, among our good old mothers as well as with our fathers, but this time we are called upon to chronicle the passing of one of our pioneer fathers, Mr. Oliver P. Barnes of Asotin, whose earthly existence came to an end last Saturday morning, at about one o'clock a.m. Mr. Barnes has not been a well man for close to four years, but for the last year and a half, he has been a constant sufferer from Bright's disease, and for weeks before the end came, it was recognized by his people that there were no hopes of him ever being any better.

The funeral was held at the residence of his son in law, W. R. Day, Sunday afternoon, being conducted by Elder Tyler of the Christian church, with prayer by Rev. James Marrav of the Presbyterian church, and interment was made in the Asotin Cemetery.

Oliver P. Barnes was born in Johnson County, Indiana, Nov. 21, 1833, and died in Asotin, Washington, January 9, 1909 - making him 75 years, one month and 18 days of age. At the age of twelve years he moved with his parents to Illinois, where he made his home for seven years and in 1852 started westward again locating in Mercer County, Missouri. On June 16, 1855, he was united in marriage to Miss Manourva Kilgore and from this union there were nine children born, four sons and five daughters - two sons being dead. Besides the widow who survives, the living children are: WA Barnes, Durkee, Oregon; HP Barnes, Asotin, Wash; Mrs. JW Sills, Cove, Oregon; Mrs. JW Fisher, Paradise, Oregon; Mrs. Herbert Achurch, Lostine, Oregon; Mrs. WR Day and Mrs. CC Day of Asotin, Wash.

The subject of this sketch left Missouri in May, 1863, and started across the plains. He was bound for the west but had no particular idea where he would stop, more than that he was headed for Oregon, and when he struck the Grand Ronde valley, in Eastern Oregon, on September 20th, of the same year, he called a halt to his traveling and located. He lived in the beautiful Grand Ronde valley for twenty-seven years, and then in 1889 moved to Paradise, Oregon, where he continued his residence until 1905, when he moved to Asotin.

By trade, Mr. Barnes was a bridge builder, but had followed farming a great deal; and prior to moving to Paradise, Oregon, conducted for a time the stage station and hotel at Red Fir. The deceased became a member of the Christian church at the age of twenty-three years, and continued as such throughout his life. Mr. Barnes had lived more than the allotted time to man, and at all times had maintained the confidence and respect of all men with whom he ever had dealings.

Notes for SARAH ELIZABETH KILGORE:

 Soon after the death of her first husband, Aaron, Sarah and her three young children accompanied her sister and brother-in-law (Oliver Perry Barnes & Minerva Kilgore) on a wagon train (poss. in 1862 over the Oregon Trail to Cove, Union Co., OR. (The understanding of my mother's generation was that the families made the move because they wished to avoid being involved in the Civil War) A third Barnes brother, George Warren Barnes, whose wife was Mary Lord, came with Oliver Perry Barnes on the same wagon train, and their youngest sister, Mary Eveline Barnes either came with them or came to OR later.

 The "wagonmaster" for this group of covered wagons was a Mr. Lieuallen. Perhaps he retired from that occupation when he reached OR. He is significant to this story because in 1863 in OR, he became the second husband of the young widow, Sarah E. (Kilgore) Barnes.

Sarah d. 04 Feb 1921 in OR . I do not know if there were children from her second marriage.

Form C

I'm not a pioneer, but I come to this country in pretty early days, all right. I landed in the Grande Ronde Valley the nineteenth of September, 1865. I crossed the plains with my parents with an ox-team, starting from Missouri, on May 3rd, 1865, the year the Civil War closed. I stayed there until 1871 when I moved with my parents to Umatilla county. I was twelve years old then, and I went to work ox a pack train that ran from Umatilla Landing to Boise, Idaho, and worked for the freighter for two years. They charged twenty-five cents a pound for packing freight. It was high, all right, but everyone had money in them days. Wages was ten dollars a day for a man with a team and five dollars a day for a single hand. The mixes were going full blast at the time and gold dust was plentiful. There warn't no real money to be seen, hardly...just gold.

My job with the train was to ride the bell pony and help the cook with his chores when we camped. The bell pony was a pony that walked along ahead of the train of pack mules. The usual custom was for a boy to ride the bell pony, and that's how come I had the job. There was a little bell like a sheep bell tied to the pony's neck, and the mules followed the sound of that bell wherever it went. There were regular camping places along the route and we tried to make one of them each night, but sometimes we just camped wherever night overtook us. Pendleton and La Grande were the only towns in a stretch of four hundred miles there, so there wasn't much staying in town for us.

Well, I finally left there in the fall of '76 and went to the Willamette Valley and settled near Lebanon in Linn County. I worked at everything there...just common labor, but the last six years I put in farming until I come to Portland in 1903.

I used to sing a great deal when I was younger but darn me if I can remember anything about the songs except the names of them. It was just after the War, and I remember there was a lot of war songs we used to sing. There was "The Last Charge at Fredericksburg", "The Battle of Shiloh," and "Marching Through Georgia". One local song I remember which everybody used to sing was called "McAfee's Confession." McAfee murdered a man and was hung for it, but while he was waiting in jail at Portland he wrote this song. (Ed. This statement is subject to further inquiry.)

As for dances, they had different kinds of waltzes and polkas. The Rye Waltz was an awfully fine dance. Then there was the Military Schottische---my wife and I took a good many prizes doing that one. Then the Polka Schottische, the Glide Polka, the Heel and Toe Polka, the Old Square Schottische which was a three-step. We had fiddles and drums for music, usually.

I remember one dance in Waterloo when there was 96 couples on the floor at one time. That was 24 sets. I called for a good many dances then, but I can't remember a single call now. In the thirty-five years I've been in Portland, I've called at only one dance and that was shortly after I come here.

I was at the first Fourth of July Celebration ever held in the Grande Ronde Valley. That was at Uniontown in 1867, located in the south end of the valley, near the canyon which cuts through the mountain there going to Baker. I saw all this stuff, mind you, but you probably won't believe me, because they never have nothing like it nowadays. They had the celebration in a beautiful grove, where they had erected three tables each three feet wide and a hundred yards long. The stuff was cooked by every one in the valley and brought there, and every one came and ate at no charge, whether he had contributed or not. And when the plates were empty, they were all refilled until everyone had enough. Underneath the tables ever so often was a big candy bucket set, a sort of tub like affair full of candy. And then they had a big parade. Music was furnished by tenor and bass drums and bugles. There were quite a few ex-soldiers there...maybe a company of about a hundred in the parade. Of course, it was shortly after the war, and not so many had come then as there were later.

The only pants men wore in them days was overalls just like they wear now, only they were white instead of blue and cost $2.50 a pair. And the menfolks all wore boots--you hardly saw a pair of shoes in them days at all.

I lived up there eleven years all told and saw six killings. Four men shot and two hung--the last two for killing a man and civil law took care of them. Of course there were lots more killings, but none that I saw with my own eyes. I recall there was a man name of Reed killed another man in a butcher shop. I was standing in the doorway at the time. He got away and killed another man later in Linn County when I was there. They caught him that time and hung him.

Then there was a fellow named Martin that killed a Dutchman. The Dutchman had been working for Martin and Martin owed him some wages. Well, the Dutchman asked for his money, and Martin said he didn't have it, and got nasty with the Dutchman and said something or other--I don't know what--and the Dutchman slapped him. That angered the old man and he drew himself up straight and told the Dutchman, "I'll kill you before the sun sets tonight." Then he turned around and walked away. He got on his horse and rode to Uniontown and there he began to liquor up.

Now there was a little store down at Hendershott's Point a little ways away, and the folks sent me down with some eggs to get coffee. While I was at the store, a pack train came in and camped down by the creek where it bends around the point. Of course, the sight of a pack train was a great sight to me as it was to all the folks who had just come from the east. We had never seen nothing like it before.

This Dutchman was there at the store, and he took my arm and said, "Come on, kid, let's go down and see the pack train."

So we went down there and I sat down on a box or a chunk of wood or something, and the Dutchman he squatted alongside and began to talk with one of the packers. I don't know what we were talking about...just passing the time of day, or talking about the pack train or something. Then the Dutchman looked up and saw old Martin coming down the trail. You could see he was drunk the way he staggered along over the rough ground.

"There comes my boss now," said the Dutchman. "He made me mad this morning and I slapped his face; then he threatened to kill me before sunset tonight." The Dutchman kind of laughed, because evidently he wasn't afraid of the old man and didn't think he would carry out his threat.

The old man come on down and walked up to the Dutchman squatting there. The Dutchman didn't stand up, and Martin sort of swayed as he stood there, looking down at him, and there was a mean look on the old man's face, and his eyes was bloodshot with the whiskey he had drunk.

"Know what I told you this morning?" he said.

"Yes, I do," said the Dutchman, and grinned up at him.

The old man didn't say another word but drew his gun then and there shot him before he could move. The ball struck the Dutchman just below the left collar bone and come out above the right hip. Martin was sent to the penitentiary for life.

Then there was another man, who lived in the cove where I did, shot and killed his brother-in-law over a bottle of whiskey. Cawhorn was the name of the man that was killed, but I didn't see any of the doings.

The living of the people then was mainly vegetables and beef. There was no fruit raised there. We had lots of beef and plenty of pork. Bacon was $1 a pound. Flour was $10 a hundred. Butter was $1 a pound. Eggs $1 a dozen. Potatoes $3 a bushel. There was some barter went on, mostly everything was paid for in gold dust. The packers and freighters carried their gold scales with them, but ordinary folks, farmers and such like, didn't need to, on account of the folks at the store had scales, and that's where the farmers mostly got rid of their stuff. Fifty pounds of flour in the gold mines near Boise was worth $50.

A man working in the mines those days got paid an ounce of gold per day for his labor. That was sixteen dollars. But that was just in the mines---I've already told you what the wages were in the valley for hired hands. In the valley it cost the farmers ten cents a bushel to get their wheat threshed and seven cents for a bushel of oats. The farmers got $3 a bushel for their wheat but I don't know what oats brought.

Extra Comment :

Mr. Twaddell is quite willing to talk at any time. He takes pleasure in reminiscing, and he feels sure that later he will think of much more because this interview has set his mind to working on things he had let be forgotten. In this worker's opinion, it will pay to interview him again at some time shortly in the future, allowing a reasonable interval for him to summon his recollections.

20. SIMEON ADDER⁴ BARNES (AARON WILLIAM³, WILLIAM GEORGE², GEORGE WARREN¹) was born 27 Nov 1858 in Princeton, Mercer, Missouri, and died 02 Dec 1945 in Weston, Umatilla, Oregon⁹⁶. He married MARY ELLEN RIDENOUR 12 Mar 1882 in Umatilla, OR⁹⁷, daughter of JOHN RIDENOUR and ANNA MOORE. She was born Mar 1857 in Posey, Indiana, and died 20 May 1953 in Weston, Umatilla, Oregon⁹⁸.

Notes for SIMEON ADDER BARNES:

MILTON EAGLE - MAY 22, 1924

S.A. BARNES

Weston has the finest drinking fountain in Umatilla County, where the sparkling beverage of "Nature's own brewing" flows the year round for the exhilaration of the quiet inhabitants, and the thirsty pilgrim.. Weston also has tall men and good women, these who built early and well for the strength of this good commonwealth.

One of these tall in stature and in real manhood is briefly sketched here. S.A. Barnes first touched terra firma in Princeton, MO, Nov. 27, 1858. He came to Umatilla County when a mere child in 1863, remained till 1880. He then spent 18 years in Washington and returned to his favorite location, Weston. For the past twenty years Mr. Barnes has been representative for the Pacific Coast Elevator Co., and has conducted a general insurance business.

W.A. Barnes, his brother, lives at Weston, and is one of the prosperous wheat famers of that section.

Mr. Barnes married Miss Mary Ridenour, March 12, 1882.

They have the following children: Mrs. Anice Vaughn, Dorris E. Sidney, Athena OR; John R. in Waitsburg, WA; and Mrs. Namie B. Wilson, Portland OR.

Mr. Barnes has been an Oddfellow 40 years, and is a Mason. He has been Mayor of Weston, three terms, and city treasurer 12 years.
