Walla Walla Union Bulletin (Walla Walla, Washington) > 1945 > October > 28, page 2

The Kings

The Eldon King family, now of Milwaukie, Ore., but formerly of Weston and Milton-Freewater, made conspicuous and unusual contributions toward winning the war.

The r. r. met up with Mr and Mrs King in Weston, where they were visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs James King. From there they went to Milton-Freeater to visit her people -- meaning the Heidenrichs.

The Kings present an unusual case of father and two sons being in armed services at the same time. Father King, a petty officer, put in three years with the navy, having very vivid recollections of Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Meanwhile, son Lawrence put in two years around New Hebrides and Admiralty islands, as a Seabee, both spots being rough places to be caught in at various times during the war. Lawrence has returned to civilian life.

Then there was Donald Lee King, who served as infantryman in the bloody Italian campaigns with the fifth army. He wears a silver star for gallantry in action.

The wife and mother of these fighting Kings didn't sit around and mope either. She pitched into essential war work and did a good job of it, too.
