White Slaves: or, The Oppression of the Worthy Poor

By: Louis Albert Banks

White Slaves Summary:

"This volume had its origin in experiences which came to me in the daily duties of a city pastorate. The inadequate wages received by some of the members of my own congregation, and the impoverished and unhealthy surroundings of many of the poor people who came for me to christen their children, pray with their sick, or bury their dead, so aroused my sympathy for the victims, and my indignation against the cruel or indifferent causes of their misery, that I determined upon a thorough and systematic investigation of the conditions of life among the worthy Boston poor."

Louis Albert Banks

John B. Horner, for whom Horner Museum is named, wrote: "Louis Albert Banks, D. D., has written more books than any other Oregonian." Born near Corvallis November 12. 1855. Banks pursued a course in liberal arts at Philomath College (ed.: now Benton County Historical Museum); and some years after entering the ministry he attended Boston University and Mount Union College. He has been pastor, of some of the leading Methodist Episcopal churches in this country; was prohibition candidate for governor of Massachusetts in 1893; has done much effective evangelistic work; and is now (1918) campaigning for nationwide prohibition. His sermons have been read by more people than have the sermons of any other American clergyman since the death of Talmage. He is the author of fifty-five books, the most of which were published by Funk and Wagnalls." - John B. Horner, Oregon

Farmer Settlement

Concluding Article by Alexis L. Johnson - Notes and Corrections.

Alexis L. Johnson, the aged Schuyler Historian, concludes his very interesting series of Letters on " Farmer Settlement" with the following contribution:

Nathan Ainsworth who settled in Farmer Settlement, was the sixth child of Nathan and Phebe Kingsley Ainsworth, born January 12, 1772, in Suffield, Ct. He and wife Abigail were married about 1794, before they came hither. Their six children, John, Nathan, Abigail, Belinda, Sophronia and Fletcher were all born at Farmer Settlement. He was a large farmer and stock breeder, owning where the Hildreths are now seated. There were three dwellings. He occupied one near Thaddeus Hildreth's, his son John where Frank Hildreth's house is, and Nathan jr., where Howard Hildreth resides. He sold 200 acres of his farm to his son John, and he sold to the Rev. Simeon Osborn about 1843, and moved to Illinois. The writer knows but little of John Ainsworth's descendants, except that his grand-daughter is the wife of the Rev. Louis Albert Banks of New York City, who is widely known in Methodist circles as an author, lecturer and pastor, having served some of the largest churches in that denomination.

H. OLIVER T DICKENSON

Prominent in the agricultural circles of Umatilla county is H. Oliver T. Dickenson, who is operating one hundred and twenty-eight acres of well improved land near Athena. He is a native son of Oregon, his birth having occurred in Roseburg, Douglas County, on the 1st of June, 1872, a son of John B. and Naomi C. (Banks) Dickenson. The father was born in Virginia, where he spent his boyhood and in 1849 went to California in search of gold. He made that trip overland with mule teams and under went many hardships. He was an active participant in several of the Indian wars. Until 1854 he was engaged in mining in California, but during that year he came to Oregon, locating in Polk county, where he took a donation claim of three hundred and twenty acres, improved it, and there resided for a period of eight years. Again taking up mining John B. Dickenson removed to Florence, B. C., and subsequently to Canyonville and Peace river in Alberta. At the latter place he operated a pack train outfit. In 1871 he was united in marriage to Miss Naomi Banks and they homesteaded land near what is now known as Athena. The homestead consisted of eighty acres, which he brought to a high state of cultivation and later proved up on an additional eighty, operating the land until his death at the age of eighty-one years. Throughout his life John B. Dickenson was a staunch democrat and he was fraternally identified with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. His wife was born near Little Rock, Arkansas, and her parents brought her across the plains in 1853, when she was six months old. Eight months was spent on this journey, the party following the Oregon Trail, and they were rafted down the Columbia river by friendly Indians. The stock was driven around the river and the Banks family located in Corvallis, Polk county, Oregon, the father taking a donation claim of six hundred and forty acres, which he improved and on which he resided for a number of years. The father of Mrs. Dickenson then removed to Douglas county and there preempted land, which he operated for some time and subsequently acquired a homestead of eighty acres near Athena, where he resided until his death. The death of Mrs. Banks also occurred on this homestead. Mr. Banks was a member of the democratic party and his religious faith was that of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Dickenson is still living, making her home at Athena. She is now seventy years of age and she is enjoying robust health.

H. Oliver T. Dickenson, whose name initiates this review, was one of the children born to this union and he received his education in the county where he is now residing. In early life he started upon his farming career, renting some land, which he operated with a substantial measure of success. Subsequently, in partnership with his brother, Sim, Mr. Dickenson purchased the Hugh McArthur farm of eleven hundred and twenty acres and from 1899 until 1916 they operated this farm. In the latter year Mr. Dickenson sold his interest and bought his present farm of one hundred and twenty-eight acres near Athena. The farm is well improved and he had built new and substantial outbuildings, which are an added improvement to the appearance of the place. Dairy farming and stock raising are his specialties and there is no phase of these lines of work with which he is not thoroughly familiar. In addition to this fine land near Athena, he owns well improved land in Comer and Peoria.

In 1907 Mr. Dickenson was united in marriage to Miss Altha Achiller, a daughter of Eugene and Mary (Harvey) Achiller, and a native of Blaine, Washington. Her father was born in Montreal, Canada, and her mother in Ontario. After their marriage they settled in North Dakota, and later in Washington, where Mrs. Dickenson was born. Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson have become the parents of four children: M.M., Beatrice, John and Oliver.

Politically Mr. Dickenson is a staunch supporter of the democratic party, in the activities of which he takes a prominent part. His religious faith is that of the Free Methodist Church. He maintains a great interest in civic and public affairs and has ever kept in touch with progress along agricultural lines.
