Son of Oscar F & Mary Ann (Allen) Clark...Husband of Martha Elizabeth Dickenson...Father of 15 - 4 children died at or shortly after birth; 11 survived to 'old'age with one still living. They are L.D., Elbert, Alice,

Sims (my father), Dean, Carl, Frank, Ross, Ralph, Elizabeth & Mary.

He was a carpenter and built many houses and remodeled others. He also made toys for his children and grandchildren.

He loved music and sang alot. He was just learning to play some musical instruments when he had an accident in a saw mill and lost the use of his left hand. But, he could still sing!

He was raised as Baptist and turned Methodist but came back to the Baptist faith (1917).

For recreation he wanted to go fishing. He would walk up the river near his home and then fish his way back down.

He was a good cook and his speciality was hash. He always made the gravy for breakfast (always stiring up, around, across, and down; never varying that pattern) while his wife finished preparing the meal.

He loved horses and dogs. He could train them well, especially the dogs, when he was through they could almost talk. He was an expert horseman and could out ride the younger generation.

Special thanks to his daughter, Mary, for most of this information.

Business is in her blood. Barbara Bastron (Mrs. LeRoy) as Barbara Markham was part owner of a five-cent hamburger shop when she was 16. "Father was killed when I was seven so we learned early to work. I was 13 when I got my first job."

In the intervening years, she has been a sportswear buyer, worked at retail selling, been service observer and switchboard operator for the telephone company and for 7 1/2 years had her own import and craft business until she lost her lease in January. Since then she has operated the Merle Norman Cosmetics studio in her home (she's been a representative for the past five years) and still has her import contracts. Eventually she hopes to re-open the import shop -- "I'm looking for the right location" -- but in the meantime she is busy preparing for daughter Claudia's wedding in December. Claudia incidentally, worked with her mother in the shop.
