Richland Transfer and Storage Co. Was founded in 1906 in what is now a park across from the Desert Inn by the late W. L. Muncney, whose wife, and son, L. G. (Buzz) Muncney still reside at 208 W. Deschutes Ave., Kennewick.

Muncney who was also an early realtor in Kennewick, built several Richland homes between 1905-'10, including one now occupied by the Columbia Service Agency. In 1907 he built a livery barn. Other Pioneer Richland homes, including the old John Dam, Vic Nelson and Ed Peddicord homes, were part of the scene.

The transfer company was sold in 1909 by Muncney to Eskelson and Anshutes, two partners, who resold in 1915 to John O. Maupin. He had 14 teams (28 horses) on the line a year later when a Dr. Davidson bought the firm and introduced the first gasoline-powered truck. Muncney repurchased the firm in 1917 and a year later completely motorized the operation, selling it in 1924 to r. R. (Mac) MacIntosh.
