3. DR. NELSON GALES³ BLALOCK (*JESSE*², *JOHN*¹) was born 17 Feb 1836 in Mitchell, NC, and died 14 Mar 1913 in Walla Walla, Walla Walla, WA. He married (1) PANTHEA A. DURHAM 01 Aug 1858 in Rutherford, Burke, North Carolina, daughter of MICAJAH DURHAM and ESTER BAXTER. She was born 15 Apr 1836 in North Carolina, and died 18 May 1864 in Mt. Zion, Macon County, Illinois. He married (2) MARIE ELIZABETH GREENFIELD 10 Dec 1865 in Macon, Illinois³. She was born 25 Apr 1849, and died 14 Mar 1913.

Notes for DR. NELSON GALES BLALOCK:

Nelson Blalock migrated from NC to Mt. Zion, Macon, IL in the early 1860s. He served as a surgeon in the 115th Regiment of the Illinois Infantry Volunteers during the Civil War. In 1873, Dr. Blalock with his family led a wagon train from Illinois across the plains to Walla Walla, Walla Walla, WA. His widowed brother-in-law, Samuel Cox and his children and several friends and neighbors from the Mt. Zion area accompanied him. Dr. Blalock practiced medicine and was a farmer on a large scale in Walla Walla. Nelson Gales Blalock was regarded as one of the leading citizens of the State of Washington. He was one of the signers of the petition to grant Washington Territory statehood. The Blalock Orchards near his home are named for him, as is Blalock Island in the Columbia River. Dr. Nelson Gales Blalock died of a stroke.

Dr. Nelson Blalock helped give life to much of early Walla Walla after arriving in Walla Walla in 1872. He delivered more than 6,000 babies during his tenure as a physician.

Delivering 6,000 babies is quite an accomplishment in and of itself, but that's not all! Blalock was an orchardist, wheat farmer, and community leader. In addition he built a lumber mill and 28-mile-long log flume from the Blue Mountains down the Walla Walla River to Walla Walla, installed the first telephones in the state, developed artesian wells which became the Blalock Irrigation District, donated the land on which Walla Walla College was built, served as a trustee of Whitman College for many years, established a ten thousand acre wheat ranch and fruit orchards, and served as mayor of Walla Walla, all while actively practicing medicine.

DR. N.G. BLALOCK. - Americans in general and those of the West in particular have no equals in the world in versatility. No other people can do so many different things and do them so well as we. No other people so disregard the conventional and regular ways of doing things, and go across lots to conclusions and results so promptly. On our Western border is this especially manifest. Face to face with nature in some of her most remarkable and powerful manifestations, with all things new and untried, we burgeon out our powers untrammled by custom or artificial restraints. Thus has come the fact that many men here, educated, as lawyers, teachers, physicians, and preachers, so readily turn their attention to other occupations, and carry on a wide range of effort. No better example can be found in the Northwest than in the subject of this sketch.

Doctor Blalock was born in North Carolina on the 17th of February, 1836. After a boyhood of activity and industry, he devoted himself for some time to teaching; but, deciding that the practice of medicine should be his goal, he entered Jefferson Medical College in 1859, and graduated two years later. He had already been married to Miss Panthea A. Durham in 1858. Soon after graduating from the medical college, Doctor Blalock, with his wife and two children, moved to Mount Zion, Macon county, Illinois.

The tempest of the Civil war just now was breaking on the country, and Doctor Blalock, with a broader patriotism than most of his misguided brethren of the South, joined the armies of the Nation as surgeon. He was attached to the One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois Infantry. With them he exercised the same skill and devotion which have been such prominent traits in his character since; but failing health compelled him to leave the army before the end of the war. In 1862 he lost his elder child, and on May 18, 1864, he suffered the irreparable loss of his faithful wife. He now resumed the interrupted practice of his profession at Mount Zion, Illinois, and there, in December, 1865, was married to Miss Marie E. Greenfield. During the busy years which followed, the Doctor, like many others, became interested in the reports of the wonderful results of farming, and other enterprises in the valley of the Upper Columbia. In 1872, he set forth to cross the plains in company with thirty other men of Macon county and their families. Though "dead broke" on his arrival at Walla Walla, his industry and fertility of resources soon set him on his feet in both his profession and his outside business. Though considering medical practice his chief calling, he could not help noticing the vast undeveloped resources lying loose around Walla Walla; and he soon, with his peculiar energy, got control of a large body of land in the foothill belt south of the city. His farming enterprises mark an era in the development of the Inland Empire. At that time, though only about sixteen years ago, nobody had tested the plains of the upper country. It was generally supposed that, aside from the narrow valleys in the near vicinity of the streams, the upper country was a desert.

The Doctor bargained for twenty-two hundred acres of upland at a price of ten bushels of wheat per acre. Entering into the work with great enthusiasm, and expending all that he had in its cultivation, he was abundantly rewarded for his daring and enterprise by securing a harvest of thirty-one bushels to the acre. Thus a third of his first crop was enough to pay for the land; and at one bold appeal to Fortune, aided, however, by good judgment and industry, he found himself independent. We give in the body of our history some specific statements as to the Doctor's subsequent experience in farming. Satisfied as to the profits of wheat-raising, he formed the association known as the "Blalock Wheat Growing Company," which secured twenty thousand acres of land in what is now Gilliam county, Oregon. Ten thousand acres of this tract have been in wheat at once, and corn (not usually thought a success in this country) has been raised on a scale and with an excellence which would do credit to Illinois or Kansas.

But the incessant activity of the Doctor in his constantly growing medical practice, and in his wheat business, did not restrain him from still greater efforts; and in 1874 he began the construction of a flume twenty-eight miles long from Walla Walla to the Blue Mountains. This great enterprise was completed in 1880, costing $56,000. The great cost of this flume and the expense of maintaining it, however, so devoured the profits that the Doctor found himself greatly embarrassed and for a time was compelled to restrict his many and valuable enterprises. Unremitting attention to his practice (now far larger than that of any other practitioner in the upper country), together with an enormous yield of wheat (90,000 bushels) on his Walla Walla ranch in 1881, soon repaired his temporary embarrassment; and he retained the position so justly due him, of being one of Walla Walla's "heavy" men.

On Christmas eve, 1885, he was again deprived by the death of his wife, a loss inestimable both to him and the place. Mrs. Blalock was a woman whose beauty and attractiveness were surpassed only by her intelligence and benevolence. She left two daughters, Rose and May. The remaining child of the Doctor's first marriage was Yancey C.; and he has followed his father into the discipleship of Esculapius, and is now rapidly making a name as one of the leading young physicians of Walla Walla. Though his mind has thus been occupied with so many matters outside of his profession, Dr. Blalock considers that his chief claim to recognition among the leading men of the country. He seems to have by nature almost every requisite of the successful physician, - calm judgment, keen perception, quick intuition and untiring patience. Besides his eminence in his profession, he keeps abreast of the times in all other matters pertaining to the development of the city and country. He is one of the trustees of Whitman College, and in all matters relating to the intellectual and social development of Walla Walla is one of the leaders. Well may the beautiful country of his adoption be proud of such a man. We may properly end this sketch by saying that, at the very day of writing it, Doctor Blalock has been further honored by being elected one of the delegates from the Walla Walla district to the convention which is charged with the momentous duty of framing a constitution for the coming great State of Washington.

DR. N.G. BLALOCK. - In all animate life, there are grades of intelligence so plainly marked that the difference is evident at a glance. Between men this gradation is so distinguishable and universal that attention has only to be called to the fact, to secure its unquestioned recognition. Among the Australian bushmen, or in the court circle of Kings, the genius of a few men lead, while the many follow. These are but truisms, facts old as the human family, still, it is not out of place to call attention to them, and the additional truth that it is not unfrequent for many, who follow some distance in the rear, to forget, when the smoke of battle has passed, that they were not in the van. Nature designs some men for active service, and for such to fall short of becoming an important element, in the progressive operations of whatever sphere circumstances places them, would be something they could not do. It would be impossible for comprehensive minds to dwell upon that which failed to possess the charm of intricacy or magnitude, something beyond the ordinary; and those possessing such faculties move off in the advance, plan and execute, where others hesitate, and fail to act. Every community has within it characters of this kind, more or less marked, who are termed the leading men or minds. East of the Cascades there are two of this class, who stand so far in the van of progress, that their names have but to be mentioned, to elicit a universal approval of the assertion from all, except their personal enemies, or the envious whose opinions are of little value. We refer, first, to Dr. D.S. Baker, second to Dr. N.G. Blalock both residents of Walla Walla City. For evidence of the truthfulness of this assertion, we refer the reader in Dr. Baker's case, to his biography and the history of railroads and transportation in this book. Of Dr. Blalock, the reader has but to learn what his operations in the country have been, to cheerfully accord him the mead of approval. He has not derived as much personal benefit from the result of his labors, as the people of the country have, and his business efforts are all of a nature calculated to inure to the public advantage more than to his private advancement.

Dr. Blalock was born in Western North Carolina, February 17, 1836, was educated in the common schools of his native state, spent one year at college in Tennessee, and then entered the Jefferson Medical College, in 1859, from where he graduated in 1861. He was a married man when he first entered the Jefferson Medical College, and started upon his course in that institution with less than money enough to pay his way. His wife, formerly, Miss Pantha A. Durham of High Shoals, North Carolina, whom he had married, August 1, 1858, was a lady of rare qualities and attainments, one who was a helpmate in the hour of his trials. Together they labored, together they economized, together they studied, and with equal hopes and pleasures, they saw the day come when he could start from the student's cloister out into the world, and strive for success. After their fare had been paid on the cars that were to take them to the new scene of labor in Illinois, the Doctor had not money enough left to buy meals on the road, and thus he started in his profession as a Doctor. It is only men with nerve and courage and brain and will who win in life's struggle. The Doctor practiced in the line of his profession until 1862, in Mt. Zion, Macon Co., Illinois, when he became Regimental Surgeon of the 115th Illinois Infantry Volunteers, but was forced to abandon the service in 1863, because of ill health. In 1864, May 18, his wife died, leaving two children of whom only one, Yancy C. is now living.

December 10, 1865, Mis Marie E. Greenfield was married to the Doctor in Mt. Zion, Illinois, and in May 1873 he left that state with teams for Walla Walla valley, where he arrived in October, without a dollar of money at his command. He at once started his teams to hauling freight, and entered upon his professional practice, and devoted every surplus dollar he could get to the purchasing and improvement of cheap lands along the Blue mountain base, until he has converted over 5,000 acres from its primitive sod into cultivated farms.

In 1881, he harvested 90,000 bushels of wheat and barley, one thousand acres of his land producing the unprecedented yield of fifty bushels of wheat to the acre, and all this upon land deemed worthless for such purposes until tested by him. A sketch of that farm accompanies this work. In 1874 he commenced the construction of a flume, purposed to convey wood and lumber from the mountains into the Walla Walla valley at rates that would enable farmers to improve their land, and in 1880, twenty-eight miles of it had been completed at a cost of $56,000. During the latter year, $160,000 were disbursed by him, in the construction of this flume, building of mills, getting out timber, operating the flume, etc. nearly all of which was paid for labor, and he lost $75,000 in the operation; but the whole country was materially benefitted, and cheap transportation from the mountains has been established as a fixture. This loss caused a temporary suspension of operations, that has since been resumed by the "Blalock Wheat Growing Company" of which the Doctor is President. This company was organized for the purpose that its name indicates to operate a 20,000 acre farm between the John Day and Columbia rivers, in Wasco Co., Oregon. The Doctor's efforts in the John Day country are demonstrating what his operations did at the base of the Blue mountains, that thousands of land acres, heretofore considered comparatively worthless, are agricultural mines of wealth.

We have only mentioned, in this brief way, the more important transactions of this man in the country, that readers might know that we have not improperly denominated him, as one of those whom nature created to lead among his fellows, to operate in the advance, break down barriers to progress, open new fields of thought, explore and guide the timid to hitherto unknown regions for enterprise, to point out new avenues to wealth, and become a public benefactor by so doing.

He still continues the practice of his profession, and was appointed surgeon for the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company in February, 1882.

This includes a photo of him.

WILLIAM C. COX, MD (William Columbus Cox)

Born in Flinty Branch, North Carolina on September 20th, 1858.

Died September 26th, 1931 in Everett

Elected December 3rd, 1895 to one-year term.

Took office January 7th, 1896.

Served until January of 1897.

Everett's first doctor, William Columbus Cox, is the only physician to have held the office of mayor. He came to Everett in the summer of 1891, opening an office in Lowell on July 6th, and made his rounds on horseback. Three months later his ailing wife died. He played an important role in the establishment of the town's first hospital, a facility on Broadway that later became Bethania College. Shortly after leaving the mayor's office Dr. Cox built a distinctive home on the northwest corner of Colby and California which was removed in 1924 for construction of the Medical & Dental Building. A local pioneer in the use of X-ray technology, he was also one of Everett's first motorists and was politically active in the movement to improve western Washington's road system

She was born 28 Aug 1860 in Naperville, DuPage, Illinois, and died 26 Jul 1944 in Seattle, King, Washington²².

Notes for DR. YANCEY CRAWFORD BLALOCK:

An illustrated history of Walla Walla County, state of Washington, By Professor W. D. Lyman, page 356, W. H. Lever, Publisher 1901

DR Y.C. BLALOCK, physician and surgeon in the Rees-Winans building, was born in Mitchell county, North Carolina, August 3, 1859. He was early taken by his parents to central Illinois, where he resided until 1873, attending the public schools. He then started across the plains to Walla Walla, driving a four-mule team all the way from Macon county, Illinois. For a number of years after his arrival he worked on his father's farm during the summer months, attending school in winter, and at last, by dint of hard, patient effort in the face of difficulties which would have overwhelmed a less resolute man, he prepared himself for entrance to Jefferson Medical College.

Immediately after graduation Dr. Blalock began practice in Walla Walla, opening an office on April 1, 1884. Since that date he has devoted his energies assiduously to his profession, building up a large practice, and attaining a high standing among his fellow practitioners. At present he holds the office of county coroner, and for four terms he was health officer of the city. his interest in the welfare of WallaWalla is manifested in many ways, but finds more particular expression in his activity in connection with the Volunteer fire department, of which he has served as chief for six years. The Doctor is very active in politics. In 1898 he was elected chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, and in the present year he was again chosen to fill that office.

In fraternal circles the Doctor is intensely active. He has held many high offices in the Masonic order, both in the grand and subordinate lodges, and is also very prominent in the K. of P., and a member of the I.O.O.F. He was married, in April, 1883, in Walla Walla, to Julia Sanderson, a native of that city, who died in October, 1885, leaving one son, Jesse N. In 1890 he again married, the lady being Lillian Ballou, who resided just across the Oregon line from Walla Walla, and to this marriage was born one daughter, Phoebe I.

Dr. Yancey Blalock practiced medicine in Walla Walla, Walla Walla, WA

CALLED – Mrs Adelaide Rasmus, pioneer Walla Wallan, died Saturday at age 93. She came to the valley in 1873.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS RASMUS

Mrs Adelaide Cox Rasmus, 93 years old, who crossed the plains from Illinois with the wagon train of her uncle, Dr. N.G. Blalock, in 1873, died Saturday afternoon at a local nursing home. She had been ill since mid-January.

Born in Mitchell county, North Carolina, May 25, 1856, she moved with her family in 1869 to Mt Zion, Ill. Her mother had died two years prior to the move and as the oldest daughter, she "mothered" her three sisters and two brothers. She was 17 at the time the family started west. The trip took from May 29 to October 11 of 1873.

She was married here to George Rasmus who died in 1915. Most of her life had been spent in Walla Walla although soon after her marriage she spent some time on a ranch in Gilliam county. For many years she operated a boarding house on Thirteenth street for workers at the old Dement mill. She was at one time housekeeper for the W.P. Winans family and also for her uncle, Dr. Blalock, and had done some practical nursing.

In recent years, she had been living at 402 West Elm street.

Mrs Rasmus belonged to the First Congregational church, was active in the Ladies Aid society and also belonged to the United Artisans.

She is survived by one son, M.W. Rasmus of Walla Walla; a grandson, Ward Rasmus whom she had reared and who is now on the faculty of San Jose State College in California: One sister, Mrs Ura Price of Walla Walla; and a brother, Nelson Cox of Portland.

Notes for SAYLOR STERLING PARRIS:

An illustrated history of Umatilla County, By Colonel William Parsons and of Morrow County By W.S. Shiach, Pub. 1902, W.H. Lever Publisher

Pg 385

Sailor S Parris – Among those upon whose shoulders falls the mantle from the veteran pioneers as they go hence to that bourne from whence no traveler returns, stands prominently this gentleman, whose brain and brawn have wrought faithfully and effectually in the arena of Umatilla's development. The prosperity that has attended his efforts and the undisturbed confidence of his fellows that he enjoys are but the proper reward of the integrity and faithfulness that have unremittingly caused his adherence to the path of duty and industry.

His parents, Alfred and Felinda (Sickler) Parris, were natives of Pennsylvania, but removed to this country in 1859. Sailor S Was born on September 22, 1860, at Mill Creek, Walla Walla county, Washington, being one of the first male white children born in this part of the country, and there gathered what education was possible from the common schools of that early day. When nineteen years of age he came to this county and took a homestead where he now lives, nine miles northwest from Athena, and to the cultivation and improvement of this, together with as much more that he has added by purchase, he has devoted himself with assiduity and energy ever since. His principal crop is wheat, but he also gives some attention to stock raising, handling both horses and cattle. He has erected upon his estate a large and comfortable residence, other necessary improvements and planted a fine orchard, which manifest good taste and judgement.

In the year 1879, in April, he was married to Miss Hulda A Cox, daughter of Samuel W and Syntha (Blalock)Cox, and to them have been born the following children: Ura M., Wesley, Emery, Sailor S., Jr, and one deceased. Mrs Parris is a native of North Carolina.

Mr Parris is active in politics and local affairs, especially in school matters, where his ability is appreciated, for his neighbors have kept him constantly in the director's office since his advent into the county. In church relations they are connected with the Free Methodist and in this position Mr. Parris is quite active, relegating to their proper places the desire of gain of worldly goods and aspirations for worldly fame. The untarnished reputation, noble Christian life and exemplary conduct of our subject have won for him that which true merit and intrinsic worth will sooner or later bring, namely, the confidence and respect and love of his associates and acquaintances.

13. JESSE O⁴ MCKINNEY (HULDAH³ BLALOCK, JESSE², JOHN¹) was born 27 Apr 1859 in Bakersville, Mitchell, North Carolina. He married GERTRUDE COOPER 31 Jan 1889 in Gilliam county, OR⁴³, daughter of JOHN COOPER and ELLAHUNSICKER.

JESSE O. MCKINNEY resides in Kahlotus, where he does a real estate business and also operates a hotel. Mr. McKinney owns nearly all of the town site and has promoted the place. He is a man of vast experience in the northwest, as will be seen from a perusal of the outline of his career given below. Jesse O. McKinney was born in Bakersville, North Carolina, on April 27, 1859, the son of William M. and Huldah (Blalock) McKinney, also natives of North Carolina, where they remained until 1881. In that year they removed to Gilliam county, Oregon, and there dwell now, following farming and fruit raising. Eight children were born to them, Moses N., Mrs. Vista Turner, James D., Mrs. Huldah Solveste, William, Robert, Mrs. Edith Little, and Jesse O. The latter received his primary education in the public schools of his native place and then entered Weaverville college, where he completed his studies. When nineteen he accepted a position as bookkeeper of a mining concern, following the same until 1881, when he came to his Uncle, Dr. Blalock, the well known promoter and capitalist in Walla Walla. After some time with him, he went to what is now Gilliam county, Oregon, and located a pre-emption near Blalock station. Two years later he was in charge of the mica mines near Moscow, Idaho, and after some time in that capacity took a position with Dr. Blalock as manager and collector of his business for one year. Next we see Mr. McKinney in Genesee, Idaho, handling a drug store. Two years later he was with the doctor again and this time remained until 1894. He then went to Gilliam county again and bought a fruit and truck farm and gave his attention to handling that until 1900. Then he went to Yakima and leased Indian land, placing two hundred acres under irrigation. A year later he was in Washtucna, handling general merchandise with his brother-in-law, T. C. Martin. In December, 1902, he sold his interests and located at Kahlotus. Here he built a hotel, started a farm implement store, and did various improvements to place the town on its feet. Later he sold the implement business, but still manages the hotel. He also handled, coal, wood, and lumber. Mr. McKinney has a quarter section adjoining town, besides the town site, also owns a farm in Gilliam county and has much other property. He has done good work here and his efforts bid fair to be crowned with brilliant success. He labors hard for the progress of Kahlotus and the country in general and is a wise worker. Already the town is growing well and is mentioned in another portion of this work. The marriage of Mr. McKinney and Miss Gertrude Cooper occurred on January 31, 1889, and two children have been the fruit of this union, John M. and Violet C. Mrs. McKinney's parents are John and Ella (Hunsicker) Cooper, natives of England and Virginia, respectively. They crossed the plains in early days and located near Sacramento, California, whence they came to Wasco county, Oregon, in 1882. A further review of their lives is found elsewhere in this work. Mrs. McKinney spent the earlier part of her life with her parents in Grant station, Oregon, where she was well educated in St. Mary's Academy. The parents later moved to Gilliam county, where she was married. She has the following brothers and sisters: Edgar, Mrs. Claudia Martin, Fred, Marie, and Hazel. Mr. McKinney is a strong Democrat and always takes an active and leading part in the campaigns, and is now one of the central committee of the county of Franklin.
