I recently learned that my Grandfather's last name was shortened to Singer from something longer, that he was in an orphanage in the Oklahoma/Texas Panhandle area from age 12 to about 16. I am wondering if anyone can help in further research. We knew him as William Henry Singer born in Texas (supposedly) in 1889 or so. He later moved to Oregon. We have more information on his life there, but want to know of his ancestry. Any help would be appreciated.

JOHN MILTON CULBERTSON

Although not yet forty-one years of age, John M. Culbertson, head of the firm of John M. Culbertson & Company, is the pioneer real estate dealer of Hood River, Oregon. He was born at Fort Worth, Texas, in 1879, a son of Elijah and Helen (Curtner) Culbertson, natives of Indiana in which state their families had been pioneers as they themselves were of Texas. An early member of the family, John Culbertson, was among the first settlers of Indiana, locating in that state when the Indians were giving considerable trouble to new settlers. He was engaged in the mercantile business and built the first store in Fort Worth, Texas, the store being afterward used as the first courthouse of Tarrant county for the transaction of legal business.

John M. Culbertson was educated in the schools of Fort Worth and the university of that city, from which he was graduated. On the completion of his university course, he engaged in the mercantile business with his brother until 1904, when the state of his health caused his retirement. Coming to the Pacific Coast, he visited Hood River, and liking its situation and climate, he decided to make his home here and has since been a resident of this city. In partnership with his brother, he started a real estate, loan and insurance business, which has grown to be the largest in the Hood River valley. After a few years his brother removed to Portland and is there engaged in the same business on his own account.

John M. Culbertson has sold more valuable land and has been the means of bringing more settlers to Hood River than any other man in the county, and in the matter of making loans, the funds at his disposal have more than once saved many a farmer and orchardist who might have gone under had it not been for the financial assistance rendered by Mr. Culbertson. His own land holdings in the Hood River valley comprise some six hundred and ten acres of fine land, laid out to orchard, hay and strawberries, the produce procuring a ready market at all times.

In civic matters Mr. Culbertson is as prominent and practical as in business life. He is a director of Hood River Commercial Club, in the affairs of which he takes a warm interest. He was an excellent worker in all the bond and Red Cross drives during the World war, and in other directions gave of his time and ability to further the public welfare. He is an earnest member of the Congregational church and fraternally is identified with the Elks, the Masonic order and the Sons of the American Revolution, being entitled to the last named honor through one of his ancestors being an officer in the war of the Revolution.

In 1910 Mr. Culbertson was united in marriage to Miss Mary Rothrock, a nation daughter of Oregon and a graduate of University of Oregon. They are the parents of one child, Mary Alene, not yet of school age. Mr. and Mr. Culbertson are prominent in the social life of Hood River and give their practical support to all movements having the welfare of the community at heart.
