LOWELL and MINNIE ROGERS 1871

Lowell Lester Rogers, the founder of the Rogers Canning Company was born in Silverton, Oregon in 1869. Rogers attended school in Weston. His father owned a farm near Weston and at one time had worked as a miner. Because of the death of his father when he was only ten years old, Lowell was educated by his mother along with the rest of the children.

In 1893 Rogers married Minnie M Dupuis. The young couple moved to a famr near Adams, which his mother had paid $3,000 for 160 acres of land.

The canning company was started in 1935. Rogers was president of the company until his death in July 4, 1954.

Minnie Dupuis Rogers was born in 1873 in Vancouver, Washington to Catherine and John Dupuis. Her father was a saddle maker and owned a harness and stagecoach shop at Weston. Stage coaches were used between Pendleton and Walla Walla before railroads were built in the area. Her father's shop was destroyed by a fire in Weston. Added to the bad luck, her father suffered a stroke.

To support the family, her mother ran a furniture and undertaking parlor. Minnie, the oldest child of eight, attended schools in Weston, later passing a teacher's test of the Oregon State Board of Education. She was the youngest person at the time to teach school in Oregon at the age of 16.

She died in 1950.
